

Conversation on Care for Our Common Home

Your Next Step Towards Care for Our Common Home

In our Conversations, we have discovered many possibilities for further work – as individuals, as communities, as advocates for public policy, as naturalists, as citizens, as ethicists and philosophers, in quest for social and environmental justice. We find others who share some of our concerns and quests.

Would you foster some next steps for others in our Conversation? In our final Conversation on June 12, you will have opportunity to share with the group your idea or project or organization. Your name and contact information will be listed with a paragraph describing your effort, and inviting others to join you.

In taking this step, you are making a commitment to facilitating others' participation in your endeavor. Your endeavor could take one of several forms: recruiting volunteers for an existing organization; forming and leading a new group; leading a group on a field trip; hosting a one-time activity.

Before June 12 the organizers of the Conversation will produce a list of opportunities for Next Steps and send it to everyone who has participated in the Conversation. At the June 12 meeting you will have opportunity to set up a display and/or give a brief presentation to the entire group about your invitation.

DEADLINE for SUBMISSION: June 5, 2016

Send this: Your name, email address, phone number. Name of your initiative, organization, or project. Your role in that endeavor. What you are offering to persons in the Conversation to facilitate their participation. Why it is important towards helping the earth, its creatures, its human institutions. What commitment are you looking for.

Do you want exhibit space/table?

Send to: (all three) grinnelhorace@gmail.com; savage403@comcast.net; beverly@bevhunter.com